Dear Sirs,

Digital Speaker Development Update

The Company advises that the vendor has supplied the initial wafer from the batch that has undergone various optimisation techniques in the final steps of fabrication. The vendor will continue to supply the balance of the wafers to the Company in regular intervals to allow for measurement and analysis of pixel yield and performance under “real playing” conditions. This will enable the vendor to properly assess the relative contribution each process adjustment has on the overall fabrication process.

As soon as the Company has enough information from testing to give a balanced assessment from this wafer and the ensuing wafers, it will immediately update the market.

Yours faithfully

Fred Bart
Chairman
